A Message to Our Sponsors

From the AGW Chair and the President of GESA

Despite the distance, we are confident that AGW26 will attract a large and engaged audience, drawn by a program that is both distinctive and highly relevant to contemporary gastroenterology and hepatology practice.

The theme for this year's meeting — AGW26: Integration, Innovation & Collaboration — reflects our commitment to support cross-disciplinary integration of knowledge, recognising that today's most challenging gastrointestinal and liver problems are complex, nuanced, and best addressed through shared understanding across subspecialties, professions and sectors.

The scientific program will bring together clinicians, scientists, educators and industry partners to explore how innovation — in therapeutics, devices, diagnostics and models of care — can be translated into meaningful improvements in patient outcomes. Collaboration sits at the heart of this approach, and AGW provides a unique national platform where these conversations can occur at scale.

AGW26 will feature several major highlights, including:

- The return of Live Endoscopy, offering practical, real-world insights into advanced endoscopic techniques
- A comprehensive Postgraduate Course, supporting both trainees and established clinicians in core and emerging areas
- A single-topic Liver Cancer Meeting, reflecting the growing complexity and rapid evolution of hepatocellular carcinoma management
- Protected Poster networking sessions supported by hospitality and close to the industry footprint.

Importantly, the program has been deliberately structured to ensure relevance for both private practice and academic specialists, with themed sessions that address everyday clinical challenges alongside cutting-edge research and innovation.

We value the partnership of our sponsors and recognise the critical role industry plays in advancing education, research and patient care. We look forward to working closely with you to ensure AGW26 is a dynamic, impactful and rewarding meeting for all involved.

Who We Are

The Gastroenterological Society of Australia (GESA) is the peak membership organisation for Australia dedicated to setting, promoting, and continuously advancing the standards of practice, training, and research in gastroenterology and hepatology. Our purpose is clear: to achieve optimal gastrointestinal and liver health for all. We work to prevent, control, and treat gastrointestinal and liver disease, supporting healthier lives through excellence in clinical care, education, and research.

As the leading voice for gastroenterologists and hepatologists in Australia, GESA collaborates closely with Federal and State Departments of Health, as well as key policy setting organisations, to uphold and advance the highest standards in research, education, patient care, and clinical practice. Our members play an active role in shaping the future of the field, representing GESA on committees and advisory groups dedicated to improving gastroenterology and hepatology across the country.

2025 Delegate Statistics

Who Attends GESA AGW?

GESA AGW remains the premier gastroenterology and liver meeting in Australia. It is a cornerstone event that fosters collegiality, delivers high quality education, promotes cutting edge research, and creates meaningful networking opportunities for clinicians, researchers, and industry partners.

Healthcare Professionals

- ◆ Gastroenterologists – specialists in the diagnosis and management of digestive system disorders.
- ◆ Hepatologists – experts in liver diseases and related conditions.
- ◆ Surgeons – particularly those specialising in gastrointestinal or hepatobiliary surgery.
- ◆ Endoscopists – clinicians focused on diagnostic and therapeutic endoscopic procedures.
- ◆ Nurses and Allied Health Professionals – including gastroenterology nurses, nutritionists, dietitians, and other professionals involved in patient care.

Researchers and Academics

- ◆ Scientists conducting basic, translational, or clinical research in areas such as the microbiome, liver disease, gut health, gastrointestinal cancers, and related fields.
- ◆ Academic leaders and educators shaping the future of gastroenterology and hepatology through teaching, mentorship, and scholarly contributions.

Attendees join the event to:

- ◆ Connect with sponsors, colleagues, and peers.
- ◆ Expand their clinical, scientific, and professional knowledge.
- ◆ Engage with potential employers and explore career opportunities.
- ◆ Learn about the latest industry trends, innovations, and developments.

Industry Representatives

- ◆ Pharmaceutical and Biotechnology Companies – showcasing treatments, therapies, and innovations in drug development for conditions such as IBD, liver diseases, and gastrointestinal cancers.
- ◆ Medical Device Manufacturers – presenting the latest tools and technologies for endoscopy, colonoscopy, and gastrointestinal or hepatobiliary surgical procedures.
- ◆ Artificial Intelligence and Technology Innovators – highlighting emerging AI driven solutions in diagnostics, treatment planning, workflow optimisation, and personalised medicine.

Policy Makers and Administrators

- ◆ Leaders from health organisations and regulatory bodies who shape healthcare policy, standards, and practice across Australia.

Students and Trainees

- ◆ Medical and PhD students, residents, and fellows pursuing training or research in gastroenterology, hepatology, or related fields.

Advocacy Groups & Patient Representatives

- ◆ Organisations and advocates dedicated to raising awareness of liver and digestive diseases, promoting patient rights, and supporting public health initiatives.
